

UG aims to provide a discussion of the role of traders in a challenged nuclear commodity market. UG is in the unique position of being an independent trading company wholly-owned by a primary uranium producer (Areva). As such, UG has an extremely unique and valuable perspective which it believes should be shared with other counterparties in our close-knit industry. Too often, traders and other intermediaries have been saddled with blame for the inability for the uranium market to recover more quickly. UG will provide a discussion on how it approaches the nuclear commodity markets and the responsible role traders can and do play in the bridge towards a post-Fukushima market recovery.
